8 MARKELL S. JONES,

Case No. 3:17-cv-00371-MMD-VPC

9 Petitioner,

ORDER

10 v.

11 RENEE BAKER, et al.,

12 Respondents.

13 The Court has reviewed the petition for a writ of habeas corpus before the Court
14 pursuant to Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases in the United States 15 District Courts. Petitioner needs to show cause why the Court should not dismiss this 16 action as untimely.

17 A petition for writ of habeas corpus is subject to a one-year statute of limitations.
18 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1). Such limitation period runs from the latest of 19 (A) the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct 20 review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

21 (B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application created by 22 State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

23 (C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was initially 24 recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

25 (D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

26 Id. If the judgment is not appealed, then it becomes final thirty days after entry, when the 27 time to appeal to the Nevada Supreme Court has expired. See Gonzalez v. Thaler, 565 28 U.S. 134, 149-150 (2012); see also Nev. R. App. P. 4(b), 26(a). Any time spent pursuing

1 a properly filed application for state post-conviction review or other collateral review does 2 not count toward this one-year limitation period. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2). However, an 3 untimely state post-conviction petition is not “properly filed” and does not toll the period
4 of limitation. Pace v. DiGuglielmo, 544 U.S. 408, 417 (2005). The petitioner effectively 5 files a federal petition when he delivers it to prison officials to be forwarded to the clerk of 6 the court. Rule 3(d), Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases in the United States District
7 Courts. The court can raise the issue of timeliness on its own motion. Day v. McDonough, 8 547 U.S. 198, 209 (2006); Herbst v. Cook, 260 F.3d 1039, 1043 (9th Cir. 2001).

9 Section 2244(d) is subject to equitable tolling. Holland v. Florida, 560 U.S. 631, 10 645 (2010). “[A] ‘petitioner’ is ‘entitled to equitable tolling’ only if he shows ‘(1) that he has 11 been pursuing his rights diligently, and (2) that some extraordinary circumstance stood in 12 his way’ and prevented timely filing.” Id. at 649 (quoting Pace, 544 U.S. at 418). Actual 13 innocence can excuse operation of the statute of limitations. McQuiggin v. Perkins, 133 14 S. Ct. 1924, 1928 (2013). “[A] petitioner does not meet the threshold requirement unless 15 he persuades the district court that, in light of the new evidence, no juror, acting 16 reasonably, would have voted to find him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.” Id. (quoting 17 Schlup v. Delo, 515 U.S. 298, 329 (1995)). “[A]ctual innocence’ means factual innocence, 18 not mere legal insufficiency.” Bousley v. United States, 523 U.S. 614, 623 (1998). “In 19 cases where the Government has forgone more serious charges in the course of plea 20 bargaining, petitioner’s showing of actual innocence must also extend to those charges.”
21 Id. at 624.

22 Here, in the state district court, petitioner agreed to plead guilty to Count 4 23 (conspiracy to commit robbery) and Count 5 (robbery with the use of a deadly weapon).
24 The sentence for Count 4 was a minimum term of 28 months and a maximum term of 72
25 months. The sentence for Count 5 was a minimum term of 72 months and a maximum 26 term of 180 months for the robbery, plus a consecutive minimum term of 72 months and 27 maximum term of 180 months for the use of a deadly weapon. The state district court 28 entered the judgment of conviction on June 4, 2007. (ECF No. 1-1 at 20.) Petitioner did

1 not appeal. On July 5, 2007, the judgment of conviction became final, because the 2 deadline to appeal otherwise would have occurred on Independence Day.

3 On November 23, 2015, petitioner filed a post-conviction habeas corpus petition in 4 the state district court. The state district court determined that the petition was untimely 5 under NRS § 34.726(1) and barred by laches under NRS § 34.800. (ECF No. 1-1 at 10-6 15.) Petitioner appealed. On April 19, 2017, the Nevada Court of Appeals affirmed the 7 decision. (ECF No. 1-1 at 17-18.)

8 Petitioner mailed his federal habeas corpus petition to this Court on June 6, 2017.
9 He alleges that his sentence for the primary offense in Count 5 (plus the concurrent 10 sentence for Count 4) has expired. He claims that he is being held illegally because the 11 deadly-weapon statute does not create a separate offense with a separate punishment.
12 See NRS § 193.165(3).

13 The facts alleged in the petition present a question when the one-year period of 14 § 2244(d)(1) started. Petitioner alleges that he was paroled from the primary offense in 15 Count 5 on August 14, 2012, and that the sentence for the primary offense in Count 5 16 expired on June 30, 2014. (ECF No. 1-1 at 3.) Petitioner also alleges that he did not 17 present this ground on direct appeal from the judgment of conviction because it was not 18 available at the time. (ECF No. 1-1 at 4.) From these allegations, the Court could construe
19 an argument by petitioner that under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1)(D) the one-year period 20 should have started on July 1, 2014, when petitioner started serving his consecutive 21 sentence in Count 5 for the use of a deadly weapon. The Court would not be persuaded 22 by such an argument. Petitioner did not learn that he would be serving that consecutive 23 sentence only as late as when he started to serve it. Petitioner learned or could have 24 learned that he would be serving that consecutive sentence no later than when the state 25 district court entered the judgment on conviction on June 4, 2007. Consequently, the one-26 year period started when petitioner's judgment of conviction became final, on July 5, 27 2007. The one-year period of 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1)(A) expired on July 7, 2008, because 28 the deadline otherwise would have occurred on a Saturday.

1 Petitioner's state post-conviction habeas corpus petition, filed on November 23, 2 2015, did not toll the one-year period under § 2244(d)(2) for two reasons. First, the one-
3 year period already had expired. A state post-conviction petition does not toll 4 § 2244(d)(1)'s period of limitations when the period has already expired. Ferguson v.
5 Palmateer, 321 F.3d 820, 823 (9th Cir. 2003). Second, the state courts determined that 6 the petition was untimely. An untimely state petition is not "properly filed" within the 7 meaning of § 2244(d)(2), and thus it is ineligible for tolling. Pace, 544 U.S. at 417.<sup>1</sup>

8 It is therefore ordered that the Clerk of the Court file the petition for a writ of habeas 9 corpus.

10 It is further ordered that petitioner will have thirty (30) days from the date of entry 11 of this order to show cause why the Court should not dismiss this action as untimely.
12 Failure to comply with this order will result in the dismissal of the action.

13 DATED THIS 17th day of October 2017.

26 <sup>1</sup>Even if the Court held that the one-year period started on July 1, 2014, the day 27 after petitioner's sentence for the primary offense in Count 5 expired, the result would be 28 the same. That one-year period would have expired at the end of June 30, 2015, almost two years before petitioner effectively commenced this action on June 6, 2017. The state habeas corpus petition still would not have tolled this one-year period because it had already expired and because the state petition itself was untimely.
